

Smile like you never hurt

I don't understand,
I don't understand why you think that it is okay,
You think you're funny,
And you think that the things that you do won't hurt me,
You have no clue what you say has an affect on me,
You have no idea who I am,
Or what I've been through,
Have you?
You think that it is okay that you can just let the words pour out of your mouth,
You never think before you speak,
You are so oblivious to me,
I don't know why I ever let you in,
Why I ever thought so highly of you,
When all you ever did was really put me down,
I understand,
That you don't understand,
Because you're so oblivious to me,
But you made the tears roll down my face one by one,
I want to scream,
Yell and wish that I could disappear,
Because I want to show you how much that it hurts,
All you see is that smile,
That I will always have,
You will always hear that laugh,
That no one else in the world has,
And no matter what I will always have that,
But on the inside I will always be tired of people thinking that they can do and say what they want,
I will always be tired of people thinking that I'm okay with anything,
That I never hurt and that I never cry,
Because I do,
But I will never show you,

Because no matter how much you make me roll my eyes,
At the hurtful things you do and say,
You don't know what you do wrong,
You don't understand,
I'm supposed to protect you,
Everyone,
I need to have that smile and that laugh,
I need to pretend that nothing is never wrong with me,
I need to have kind forgiving eyes,
And never use my hurt to hurt anyone else,
Nothing good ever comes out of revenge,
Because that is just who I am.